

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY-GO-ROUND

TRADE MARK REGISTERED

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

Washington — Keep your eyes open for a new move to strengthen relations with Soviet Russia.

One or two cabinet members have got restive over the narrow policy of the state department in giving Russia the cold shoulder merely because of $178,000,000 in unsettled debts.

The ex-Allies owe this country about 11 billions, these officials point out, compared to which the Russian indebtedness is mere chicken-feed. Meanwhile the United States is cutting off its nose to spite its face by losing tremendous amounts of profitable trade, also Russian political support in the Far East.

Note: Present state department policy is to put Russia on the No. 3 or worst list in setting tariff rates, and to refuse all dealings with her through the Export-Import bank. Meanwhile the bank gives credits to Fascist Italy.

Sit-Down Strike Murphy

Red-headed Frank Murphy, governor of Michigan, was about to address an audience. The crowd rose in tribute to him.

"Sit down," he told them. "I'm used to it."

Basque Children

The state department has been under terrific undercover pressure by Catholic groups to prevent the admission of 500 Basque children, whom American sympathizers plan to place with American families as a result of the siege of Bilbao.

Catholic leaders claimed that the children were to be placed in the home of American Catholics.

However, the state department stood its grounds. In the first place, Basque Catholic priests are to accompany the children and make sure they are properly cared for.

In the second place, a secret precedent already existed for the admission of refugee children, when 250 German-Jewish children came here during the Nazi purge.

Incidentally, applications for Basque children already have been received from 2,700 American families. Since there are only 500 to go around, the committee plans to be very choosy about the foster-parents. Probably the kids will live in clover.

Maritime Raid

The new U. S. Maritime commission can testify that "it never rains but it pours."

Working day and night to pass on shipping routes involving millions of dollars, which must be disposed of by June 30, the commissioners suddenly have been confronted by a flank raid on Capitol Hill.

Railway lobbyists, operating behind the scenes, have engineered bills transferring regulatory authority over inland, coastwise and foreign shipping lines to the interstate commerce commission. This would deflate the maritime commission like a pricked balloon.

For years the railroads have been trying to jockey regulation of competing water carriers under the wing of the ICC—where it would be administered by railroad-minded officials.

LaFollette Investigation

The next fireworks Senator Bob LaFollette is planning to spring in his investigation of civil liberties will be in the Ford organization.

LaFollette has had his investigators in and around the Ford motor plants for some weeks, and soon will be ready to begin hearings.

Governor Winant

Just back from Texas, John G. Winant, ex-chairman of the social security board, will soon be packing his bags again. He is going back to Geneva to resume the work of assistant director of the international labor office.

The lanky, slow-spoken former governor of New Hampshire left the Geneva job to become sole Republican member of the social security board.

Just a year ago, with the Republican national convention in the offing, Governor Landon told friends he thought Winant would make a good running-mate. Instead, Winant campaigned against Landon.

Winant will leave for Geneva in August. He says, "I didn't finish the job I was doing there, and I always intend to return."

Merry-Go-Round

Internal Revenue Commissioner Guy Helvering has completed an entire reorganization of the vast tax collection machinery of the government. Under the modernized system, tax returns are checked within a few months after their receipt. Under the old procedure two to five years often went by before the bureau got around to examining returns.

The social security board has a new problem on its hands—combating bunco schemes. The two most frequently encountered are plural registrations and counterfeit registration cards. The latter are being used

POLICE GUARD SCENE MONDAY'S FATAL RIOT

TAX EVADERS MUST BE HIT URGES F. D. R.

Special Message is Sent To Congress by Executive

Washington, June 1.—(AP)—President Roosevelt asked congress today to stop tax dodging "by a minority of the very rich individuals."

The chief executive, in a message saying evasion by the wealthy shifts the tax load to those less able to pay, urged legislation at this session "specifically and exclusively aimed at making the present tax structure evasion-proof."

"We face a challenge to the power of the government to collect, uniformly, fairly and without discrimination, taxes based on statutes adopted by congress," he said.

Roosevelt declared the full power of the government would be thrown behind a treasury investigation of income tax evasion and avoidance. He asked authorization to expand the inquiry, giving the treasury full power to summon witnesses and compel testimony.

Preliminary Report

The president transmitted a preliminary report on the investigation, and expressed confidence congress would share with him a feeling of indignation at findings of evasion.

The report, he said, "reveals efforts at avoidance and evasion of tax liability, so widespread and so amazing in their boldness and their ingenuity, that further action without delay seems imperative."

Immediately after reading of the message, Chairman Harrison (D-Miss) of the senate finance committee introduced a joint resolution to authorize an investigation of tax evasions by a joint congressional committee with directions to report back by Jan. 5, 1938, at the latest.

Tax evaders to whom the president referred in his message, but did not name, would be permitted to come before the joint committee and make "any defense" they wanted, Harrison said. He declined to name those cited by the president.

Variety of Methods

There are a variety of tax dodging methods, Roosevelt added, explaining:

"Some are instances of avoidance which appear to have the color of legality; others are on the borderline of legality; others are plainly contrary even to the letter of the law.

"All are alike in that they are

"I was following mama's pink dress through the stores," Beverly Ann said, "but after I followed the dress for two blocks I found out it wasn't mama's."

Burckhart Death Intentional Self-Destruction Jury Decides

At the inquest conducted Saturday afternoon by Dr. Kenyon B. Segner, county coroner, concerning the death of Edward Burckhart, the jury returned a verdict finding that the youth came to his death as the result of a suicidal intent when his automobile was struck by train No. 111 of the Chicago & North Western at Nelson Thursday evening, after he had driven through a crossing gate and brought his automobile to a stop directly in the path of the train. More than a score of witnesses testified at the inquest.

Riley Schriver of Chicago, veteran engineer, and Fireman E. O. Wilkins were members of the train crew who gave their testimony of

MONTHLY SAFETY DRIVE STARTED AT CEMENT MILL

Flag, Raised This Morn., Will Fly During No-Accident Period

A large green flag with a white circle enclosing a green cross in its center was unfurled from the staff in the parkway at the Medusa Cement Company's plant east of Dixon this morning. Superintendent L. E. Smith explaining that the flag was a symbol of the nation-wide safety drive in the cement industry.

Safety flags are flying today over cement mills from coast to coast. How long these flags will wave depends on whether any accidents occur severe enough to cause an employee loss of time. Flag raising ceremonies at sunrise opened the June No-Accident campaign under the auspices of the Portland Cement Association. The flags remain as long as there are no accidents, but must be hauled down for the balance of the year in any plant where an accident occurs.

The June No-Accident campaign is one of the ways in which the cement industry is emphasizing the importance of safety. The campaign really started the week of May 17 when plant safety committees met to perfect plans.

Spotless Plant Week

Last week was Spotless Plant week in the cement mills, when foremen and men in every department completed a regular spring house cleaning in preparation for the safety drive. Four inspection days will be observed in each plant during the month. The campaign will close with general mass meetings on June 30. Results will be announced on Saturday, July 10 and "Perfect Month" certificates will be awarded to the winning mills on July 15.

That a perfect record for a month can be made is evidenced by the fact that 36 plants received the Portland Cement Association Safety Trophy for 1936 for operating 12 calendar months without a single lost-time accident. Some of these mills have made safety records for safe operation for from two to ten years.

The Dixon Medusa plant figured prominently in this campaign in 1936 when the beautiful slab and fountain in the parkway at the curve on state route No. 2 were erected to commemorate the fine no-accident record made in two years. The dedication took place June 2, 1931 when Hon. Oscar E. Carlstrom officiated as the principal speaker at a program which celebrated the event.

THIRTY-EIGHT ILLINOISANS DIED, WEEKEND

Automobiles Take the Heaviest Toll As Usual

Chicago, June 1.—(AP)—At least 38 residents of Illinois died violent deaths over the Memorial Day weekend, an Associated Press survey showed today. The fatalities occurred in Illinois, Wisconsin and Tennessee.

Automobiles took the heaviest toll, 25, while seven drowned and one was killed by a train, evidently as he walked along the tracks.

Despite only one auto death in the 24 hours ending last midnight, Chicago led all cities in the state with 10 fatalities on the three-day weekend. Five persons drowned as the city beaches and outlying swimming places attracted huge crowds seeking shelter from the season's first heat wave. Among the fatalities:

A head-on auto collision took three lives near Havana, Ill., last night. Dead of fractured skulls were Clem A. Davy, 35, Timothy Agnew, 45, and Roy Poole, all of Middleton. Two other men were critically injured.

Rockford Fatality

Earl Livingston, 25, of Rockford, was killed when his car struck a culvert.

Miss Lois Schroeder, 23, of Freeport, was fatally injured when a car in which she was riding with a male companion hit a culvert. The driver, Oliver Creer, Shannon publisher, was seriously injured.

Maynard Preston, 21, of Chadwick, died two hours after his auto struck a bridge near Morrison.

Three years old Russel McNally of near Freeport was killed by a passing car police said was driven by E. B. Chronister, 55, of Freeport.

Car Struck Tree

Arthur Maynard, 45, of Belvidere, former private secretary for the late Congressman John T. Buckbee from the 12th Illinois district, died and six other persons were injured when their car struck a tree in Walworth, Wis. Two of the injured were reported near death. Maynard, employed as a cigar store clerk, was said to have had $1,362 in his possession.

Orin Ruchtsman, 38, and Pete Ruchtsman, 25, both of Peoria, and three unidentified Negroes were killed near Murfreesboro, Tenn., in a collision of two machines.

Young Organization Made Debut

Dixon's newest martial-music organization which scored a big hit in yesterday's Memorial Day parade—pronounced by all as one of the finest ever held in Dixon. The young musicians, resplendent in handsome uniforms, played well and marched like soldiers.

This organization was formed under the sponsorship of Dixon post No. 12, American Legion, four months ago, A. G. Holman being the chairman of the committee in charge of the corps; with Claire Thompson, manager; M. L. Rosbrook, instructor of trumpeters; and Paul Grimes, instructor of drummers.

The corps is one of the units of the Legion's youth movement, designed to counteract and nullify communistic, fascist, nazi and socialistic anti-American propaganda among the youth of America.

The corps, equipped by popular subscription, will be a fine publicity and civic organization for the city. It now numbers 42 boys.

Supreme Court Ends an Historic Eight-Months' Term in Capital Today

Final Session for Justice Van Devanter, Age 78

Washington, June 1.—(AP)—The Supreme Court wound up an eight-month historic term today by agreeing to pass upon constitutionality of federal loans and grants to aid in financing municipal power plants.

It then adjourned, not to meet again until October. Before that time congress may act on President Roosevelt's controversial court reorganization proposal to put "new blood" on the highest bench.

Before adjourning, the court declined to review litigation filed by the Electric Bond & Share Company and 26 subsidiaries challenging constitutionality of the 1935 act regulating public utility holding companies.

This was the final session attended by 78-year-old Justice Willis Van Devanter, retiring after 26 years of service. He will spend most of his time on his Maryland farm.

Among other actions today, the court:

Other Decisions

Refused to review a decision by the Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals ordering a trial before the Eastern Tennessee Federal District court to determine whether the Tennessee Valley Authority could expand its power program in eight states.

Declined to pass on two new cases challenging the Wagner labor relations act on the ground that it made no provision for a judicial review of decisions by the national labor relations board as to who should represent employees in collective bargaining. The appeals were filed by the El Paso Electric Company and a group of its employees, and by the "Independent workers of Clayton Mark & Company" of Chicago.

FIVE KILLED IN FIGHT AT SO. CHICAGO

Officials State Mob Rule There Must Cease

Chicago, June 1.—(AP)—Police tightened their lines about the Republic Steel Corporation plant in South Chicago today as strike leaders prepared to return pickets to the scene of the bloody Memorial Day riot.

Van A. Bittner, regional director of the Committee for Industrial Organization steel group, said Captain John Pendergast of the uniformed police agreed to allow an unlimited number of pickets on the lines.

Declaring "there will be no mob rule in Chicago", the captain announced 100 policemen would be held in reserve at the South Chicago station. The officers were withdrawn from reserve duty Sunday after the rioting in which five were killed and more than 100 injured.

Communists Blamed

While investigators hoped an inquest into the deaths of victims of Sunday's riot would help place responsibility for the disorder, Supervising Police Captain James Mooney, who was in command of the forces during the melee, said he had information that known Communists fomented the attack.

Bittner conferred with four attorneys for the United Mine Workers Union, another C. I. O. affiliate. The lawyers were George L. Grant and Thurlow Lewis of Springfield; T. C. Townsend of Chicago and Earl Houck, Washington.

67 Held in Jail

Sixty-seven men were held in police custody today.

Police Capt. Thomas Kilroy said the 67 participated in the bloody battle between unionists and sympathizers.

To Charge Conspiracy

He said they would be charged with conspiracy to commit an illegal act, which carries a maximum penalty of five years in prison and a $2,000 fine upon conviction.

Bittner said after attending a five-hour conference called by Governor Henry Horner that:

"This strike don't be settled until we get a contract. These conferences don't amount to a damn."

The contract to which he referred was the goal of the S. W. O. C. in calling a strike against the far-flung steel empire of the Inland and Republic Steel Corporations and the Youngstown Sheet & Tube Co. The proposed written agreement would permit the S. W. O. C. to act as collective bargaining agent for its members.

Horne said Bittner had assured him strikers would be urged to refrain from action that might lead to a recurrence of rioting. But Bittner declared he would insist upon maintenance of a picket line.

By The Associated Press

Contentious questions arising from strike violence pushed the primary dispute over collective bargaining into the background on the labor front today.

In the steel and motor industries civil authorities sought to sift the blame for clashes incident to the Committee for Industrial Organization's drive for the right to represent workers.

At Chicago an inquest was ordered into the deaths of five men fatally hurt in a clash between police and a crowd which surged toward the Republic Steel Corporation's South Chicago plant.

A clash at the Republic's Warren, Ohio, plant provoked conflicting charges for unionists and the management. Republic charged "gunmen" among the pickets fired on planes delivering food to workers at the mill. Reports that fire-arms were discharged within the plant grounds brought denials from the company.

Continue Operations

Republic stated it would continue to operate plants at Warren, Canton and Niles, Ohio, and at Chicago and Buffalo "because thousands of men in those plants want to continue at their jobs."

A clash of a comparatively minor nature at the gates of the Ford Motor Company plant recently was the source of another inquiry. Wayne county (Detroit) Prosecutor Duncan C. McCrea demanded the company and Dearborn city officials co-operate with him in seeking the identity of men who assaulted representatives of the United Automobile Workers.

The representatives were beaten

DAILY HEALTH

By DR. IAGO GALDSTON
Mystery of Allergy

A young child fed eggs for the first time promptly develops a rash. When brought by its anxious parent to the doctor, it is diagnosed as suffering from an allergic reaction.

The physicians quite likely advises that, for the time being, the child should not be fed egg foods and he may plan for the "desensitization" of the child. All of which mystifies the parent greatly, and he properly asks the doctor to explain the mystery of allergy. This is much more easily asked for than achieved.

The medical dictionary defines allergy as "a condition of unusual or exaggerated specific susceptibility to a substance which is harmless in similar amounts for the majority of members of the same species." This helps some. But the mystery still remains and, truth to tell, our studies of allergy have not advanced to the point where we can clear up all of it.

Apparently "all of life learns by experience." The tissues of the living being, brought in contact for the first time with a certain substance, react in a given way. When exposed to the same substance a second time their reaction is changed. The change is the result of the initial experience. Thus we say the tissues have learned by their experience.

Technically this alteration in reaction toward a definite substance is called specific sensitiveness, or again "the altered reactivity caused by the previous contact or contacts with the substance of infective agent." It is because of such allergic reactions that the body is able to develop immunity or resistance against certain diseases. Also, a number of our tests, notably the Schick test for diphtheria, the Dick test for scarlet fever, and the tuberculin test are possible because of the allergic reactions of the body.

From this description it appears that the increase in sensitiveness, or the altered reactivity of the body following contacts with substances or ineffective agents, is a valuable mechanism for it enables the body to meet more competently the substances which threaten its well being or existence. In one sense, this is the logic behind vaccination.

Unfortunately, however, allergic reactions are not always so beneficial. They may of themselves engender disease conditions.

Of Allergic Reactions

An allergic reaction may turn out to be either protective or injurious.

When protective, it is termed prophylactic, that is, one that tends to ward off disease. When injurious, it is called anaphylactic. Let us use an analogy.

An individual who slips or is thrown off balance instinctively puts out his arms and goes through a series of quick muscular readjustments aimed at helping him regain his balance. If he is successful, these movements are prophylactic ("for protection") in effect.

But if he falls despite his efforts he is likely, especially because of his contortions, to suffer some added injury. He may break his arm bones or collar bone because he extends his hand and falls on it. In this case his efforts to regain balance might be called anaphylactic ("against protection") in effect, for if he had taken his fall on his back or side he might have suffered no more than a bruise.

Professional athletes and trained tumblers usually know how to inhibit their spontaneous movements so as to fall or tumble without incurring added risks.

In the treatment of anaphylactic reactions, the sufferer is at times injected with minute but increasing quantities of the very substances to which he is sensitive. This form of treatment tends to condition the body to "fall safely" or not to over-react.

An allergic reaction, as defined elsewhere, is a "specific change in the degree of sensitiveness towards a definite substance or physical stimulus on the part of an individual or of one or more of his tissues."

Some individuals seem to be born with a heightened capacity to develop allergic reactions.

Among them one finds a marked prevalence of such allergic diseases as asthma, hay fever and urticaria.

Furthermore, physicians believe today that allergy is essential for the production of other diseases.

notably rheumatic fever, certain forms of kidney disease, lobar pneumonia and tuberculosis.

By further study of the mechanisms of the allergic reaction, it is quite possible that medical science may ultimately learn to master these devastating diseases.

HOMECOMING

Monday, July 5th., is official homecoming day this year in Dixon. Of course any day in the year will serve to give the home town a glad chance to welcome back any former Dixonite but, after all, we can't expect the band to get dressed up and stand on the station platform for every train that comes along all the year around so this time we have selected July 5th. (Since the Fourth falls on Sunday the fifth has been made a legal holiday).

The Junior Chamber of Commerce, an organization of enterprising young men who soon will be running the senior chamber and the city in general, has been asked to assume the arduous task of planning and carrying out the Homecoming program and they have accepted the responsibility. We feel sure that all the people of Dixon will give them financial and moral support. Their job is to give a hospitable and hearty welcome to all of the many thousands of visitors who are invited and expected to come to Dixon on that first Monday in July for the Homecoming.

The Junior Chamber has worked out a plan for financing the cost of the events of the day which will put no burden on anyone and will bring profit to many of the subscribers to the fund.

Dixon wants its sons and daughters, no matter how far they may have strayed, to come back for a visit with us home folks, to stay as long as they can, and we want to make them feel that we are really glad to have them back at the home fire-side.

TUT, TUT, SENATOR

Col. James Hamilton Lewis, senior senator from Illinois and democrat whip of the senate, loosed the following to the public from the floor of the United States senate:

"The United States is not a bureau created for the distribution of money to those who may demand it. The time has come when the government must take some action to carry out the fundamental doctrines on which it was created. We are either a government of limited powers on the one hand and privileges on the other, or we are a government of human beings assembling around the treasury to raid it with every effort that may be made by force and power. . . .

"If conditions continue as they are now there is no treasure that can be exacted from the public purse that can possibly endure the demands. It is little less than a form of political cowardice for us to sit silent and allow these people to feel that by this form of hippodrome they can terrorize the congress into doing that which is a robbery of the citizens.

"The time has come when this government must get back to the foundation of its existence and to some degree carry out and fulfill the orders of its destiny. If it is the purpose of this government to convert the United States in a mere granary for the supply of all wants of mankind without regard to whence they come and also indifferent to whether they toil or spin we will enter upon a course that will mean the paralysis of all initiative."

Tut, tut, Senator! Them's only the words of Tories and economic royalists!

OUR LOOSE VOCABULARY

Loose talk without regard to facts leads many persons to refer to persons of certain ages as "high school students," when they should use the expression, persons of high school ages. The error would not be so damaging were it not for the fact that such usage usually is adopted to designate persons guilty of misconduct.

Tendencies of the present are to run as many of our young people through high school as is possible, and the result is that we are likely to find a high school assembly a fair cross-section of the community, more so than when a larger proportion ended supervised education at the eighth grade. Even in the face of that fact, we regard as base slander on high school students as a body the assertions that should be confined to persons of high school age.

Persons of college age are not indiscriminately referred to as college students.

MR. NORRIS' NOTION

Senator Norris's notion, otherwise known as the unicameral legislature of Nebraska, has completed its first session. One swallow doesn't make a summer, but we can judge as far as it has gone.

When the innovation was undertaken we made the comment that the purpose of two houses of a legislature is to slow down legislation and through the slowing process have time to make sure that the new law is needed or desirable. We said that if a state doesn't have enough laws and has not been able to pass laws fast enough, then the unicameral legislature ought to fit the needs, but that in most instances we are able to pass laws with all the rapidity that is advisable even when the consent of two houses is necessary.

We guessed right at least in the first instance. The last bicameral legislature passed 192 measures in 110 days. The unicameral assembly passed 226 laws in 98 days.

The cost of the operation of the new form was $63,000 less than cost of the old form, but—

Senator Norris's experiment cost an excess of 5 million dollars in appropriations, and when $63,000 is set up against 5 million, the net gain to Nebraska can hardly be seen by the naked eye.

The governor criticized the assembly for appropriating 5 millions more than the budget called for, and he expressed regret that he could not veto any of the items. We assume that the rule that leaves him in the predicament is one that binds all appropriations together and the governor must accept or reject the whole.

Usually a broom sweeps cleanest when it is new. First men named to a commission usually are the best. They seek to justify the creation of the commission and they do a good job of administration. The first session of the unicameral legislature ought to be a high spot. It may be that future sessions will justify the change to a greater degree, but the record of political bodies does not warrant hope for improvement. The thing may be expected to become worse.

THE VEIL IS TORN AWAY

"If fifteen judges can agree more quickly than nine judges, what we need is about two thousand congressmen," writes Robert Quillen. That is good as a pert paragraph, but it assumes that the president meant the things he said when he offered his bill to congress.

Either he did not mean the things he conveyed to congress or he was woefully ignorant of the facts. He can take either end of it, but up to this time he hasn't chosen to take either. He simply has stood by while the veil has been torn from the misrepresentation made to congress and has let the people accept the only other interpretation—that the only element worthy of consideration is the president's desire to pack the court with men who will record his will in the court instead of the law of the land.

No support has been given any other theory of passing the proposed legislation.

to cash rubber checks. Individuals who register several or more times in the hope of getting added old age pension insurance are due for disappointment. When the board completes the installation of its "master index" system these duplications are certain to be uncovered. . . . North Carolina Republicans are doing some free and fancy cussing over Federal Judge Isaac Meekins' appointment of Thomas Dixon, author of "The Klansman," as clerk of his court. Dixon is a Democrat who bolted the New Deal last year first to support Gov. Gene Talmadge, later Gov. Alf Landon. The North Carolina G. O. P. are sore because they feel Dixon was not entitled to the $5,000-a-year sinecure. Meekins was appointed to the bench by Coolidge.

President Wise

The President is wise enough to take a lesson from the fiasco of his Supreme Court reform fight. Result of that was a complete change of tactics in sending his wage-and-hour bill to Congress.

Only the insiders who consulted him knew about it, but he was very careful to avoid the mistakes of the Supreme Court message.

That time he had consulted no one on Capitol Hill before sending the message to Congress. When one of his friends suggested that he get the advance advice of a few senators, the President replied:

"Oh, if they object, I'll send for them. I'll call them in."

Not only did Roosevelt decline advance consultation, but he made the further mistake of tying his Supreme Court message up with the court bill simultaneously introduced.

Congress is very jealous of its legislative prerogatives. Receiving a presidential message recommending certain legislation is one thing. But drafting a bill with every "I" crossed and every "J" dotted, and nothing left to be written in save the signature of Congress, is something else again. It riles the boys on Capitol Hill to the core.

Slipped

So with his labor bill, Roosevelt reversed tactics. He consulted with leaders, showed them both the message and the proposed measure. Then he asked for advice on how to handle the bill. They gave it readily.

"Don't make any specific reference in your message to your bill," they cautioned. "Talk in general terms and then introduce it afterwards."

Roosevelt did, and it worked like a charm. Joint hearings are to be held by Senate and House labor committees (the House has not yet held hearings on the Supreme Court bill) and the act probably will pass in record time.

Note: The tactics used by any President toward Congress is a pretty good barometer of his popularity. When the court bill was submitted last February, Roosevelt was cocky and confident. Since then, however, he has done a little slipping.

Lindbergh Baby

Ever since the new Lindbergh baby was born, the state department has been receiving queries as to whether he is an American or British citizen.

Apparently a lot of people are wondering if Colonel Lindbergh's resentment against the United States goes to the extent of letting his latest-born become a British citizen.

Foreign-born children of American parents should be registered at an American consulate, though it is not obligatory. So far the state department has no record of the Lindberghs doing this.

Actual fact is that his newly born son automatically remains an American citizen, unless after the age of 21 he wants to relinquish it for British.

Coal Mine Office

The new office building of the United Mine Workers will be unique from many points of view.

First, the miners have taken over the swanky University club in the heart of Washington's most ritzy business district.

Second, the job of remodeling will be 100 per cent union, even though this means hiring A. F. of L. men. (The A. F. of L. dominates the building trades, which the CIO has not entered).

Finally, the office of John L. Lewis, head of one miners, is to be designed and decorated to resemble the interior of a mine.

The United Mine Workers paid $275,000 for the University club, now are spending $250,000 remodeling it. There will be an assembly room in the basement accommodating 400 to 500 people, an office for the Mine Workers Journal on the first floor, with Lewis' office on the second and mezzanine floors. His room will be 22 feet high.

The architect expects to execute from 150 to 200 drawings before the job is finished.

Note: The American Federation of Labor owns its own office building on Massachusetts avenue, though no in swanky section. The Railroad Brotherhoods occupy a building named "Labor," adjacent to Congress. The Mine Workers are two blocks from the White House.

Legal Stalling

In August, 1935, Congress enacted Section 77 of the Bankruptcy law, enabling railroads going into receivership during the depression to reorganize. In the nearly two years since then, not a single major reorganization has been concluded.

Chief reason—dilatory tactics by railroad lawyers who stand to profit by the delay and the bankruptcies.

Seventy-four railroads with listed securities aggregating $2,000,000,000 have submitted reorganization plans to the interstate commerce commission. The proposals have been pending for months. The task of considering them is one of the biggest ever tackled by a government agency. The ICC has made every effort to speed up action in order to get the railroads out of bankruptcy.

But every move has been obstructed. The legal fees are too juicy.

Loyal Highwaymen

The other day Commissioner Charles D. Mahaffie was conducting ing a hearing on a plan to reorganize the Denver & Rio Grande railroad. Suddenly one group of lawyers in the case announced that they were against the proposal and asked for a 60-day postponement to formulate a new one.

"When did you first decide that you didn't like this plan?" Mahaffie asked.

"Last October."

"Last October!" snapped Mahaffie. "Why didn't you say so then, and why didn't you prepare a new plan? You have had eight months in which to do so."

At this point the lawyer for still another group of stockholders broke in with the calm announcement that after the first group submitted its new plan, his clients would want additional time to prepare one of their own.

"And then," shot back Mahaffie, "when you have had your 60 days I presume some other group will pop up and ask for another postponement to prepare their plan. Sort of perpetual motion, eh? You ought to patent this system."

Note: In the reorganization proceedings of the Frisco road the commission warned that it was calling a halt on the endless run-around of motions, counter-motions, plans and counter-plans.

LET'S EXPLORE YOUR MIND

A fascinating pastime with "THE MARKS OF A CLEAR MIND"

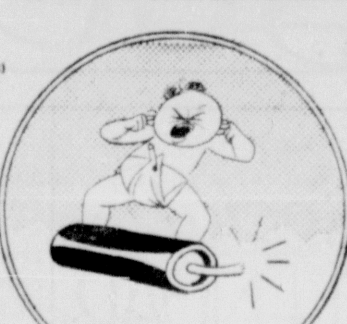

Albert Edward Wiggam, S.S.E. Author of "THE MARKS OF A CLEAR MIND"

1. PSYCHOLOGISTS LONG AGO PROVED THAT INFANTS HAVE AN INBORN FEAR OF A LOUD NOISE. DOES NOT COMMON SENSE DISPROVE THIS PROOF? YES OR NO.

2. THINK QUESTION: REAL ESTATE DEALER HAS TWO ABSOLUTELY IDENTICAL APARTMENTS. FINDS HE CAN RENT BOTH MORE EASILY BY MAKING ONE TEN DOLLARS HIGHER THAN THE OTHER. WHY? YOUR ANSWER.

3. IF HUSBAND AND WIFE ARE AT THE SAME TIME CAN THEY SETTLE ANYTHING? YES OR NO.

"The keenest anguish known to human nature is the pain of a new idea." (Pagehol). We hope this column Brings you pain.

Answer to Question No. 1.

1. No. Common sense never disproves any really scientific proof. However, science itself in this case seems to have disproved what psychologists thought was established for all time by Dr. John Watson, namely, that the fear of a loud noise is inborn in all infants. Prof. William A. Hunt, according to Science News Letter, shot a revolver close to the ears of 60 very young babies and it didn't scare them worth a cent. Several who were crying stopped when the shot went off and 33 of the 60 were not startled at all. However, strange to say the shot did make all of them wiggle their toes. I fear this new evidence may make some of the older psychologists wiggle their psychological toes at least.

SELF-CONFIDENCE and How to Develop It

This booklet is in many respects the greatest yet offered by Dr. Albert Edward Wiggam in connection with "Let's Explore Your Mind." It contains TEN RULES, each scientifically tested and presented in easily understood words. Included is a self-rating Self-Confidence or Personality Comparison chart.

The essence of the booklet is the work of Dr. David Mitchell, distinguished consulting psychologist. This booklet is issued without profit as a service to readers. A charge of 10c is made to cover costs. Enclose a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed return envelope. Address Dr. Albert Edward Wiggam in care of this newspaper. Just ask for SELF-CONFIDENCE.

Goode and Zenn Kaufman call "Showmanship in Business" in their interesting book. As they point out, one customer notices they are alike and think the dealer has made a mistake and snaps up the cheaper one before any one else discovers the error. Another thinks one must somehow be swankier than the other and falls for the extra price on that score. "Human nature" is quar and and quar salesmen make a lot of money out of other people's quariness.

Answer to Question No. 3.

3. No two people can ever settle anything when both are angry. When a person is angry the reasoning faculties are submerged—actually flooded with emotion—and anything he may decide to do is not a decision but a reckless plunge. Nothing ever gets anywhere in human relations but intelligent conduct and when one is angry—intelligence ceases entirely to guide one's conduct—he is guided by distorted emotion.

A Job That Never Ends

Spectacular increases in the speed of trains, freight as well as passenger, are evidences of railroad progress that everyone may see.

Less apparent have been the years of constant improvement that made this high speed possible with ever-increasing safety.

Improvements not only in the trains themselves, but in the rails, road-bed, bridges, signals—in everything that goes to make a railroad.

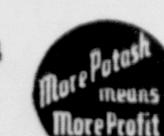

Great as the achievements of the past have been, the progress of the railroad goes on—devising further improvements that will provide still faster and safer transportation.

Side-Dress Corn WITH POTASH

CORN PLANTS on high-lime or "alkali" soils often show symptoms of potash-hunger early in the season. The lower leaves have yellowish streaks between the veins and show a brown marginal firing or "edge scorch". Later in the season the streaking and firing will extend to the upper leaves. The stalks will be weak, and the corn will be chafy and poor in feed value. • It is not too late to apply potash fertilizers even after the symptoms of potash-starvation appear. If you did not use enough fertilizer at planting time or used an analysis with too little potash, side-dress with muriate of potash at a rate of 100-200 pounds per acre and save your corn crop. The potash should be applied as early as possible, close to the row, and down in the moist soil in the root zone. The best machine for the purpose is a fertilizer attachment on a corn cultivator, but any distributor which will place the potash near the roots is effective. • At present prices, it will cost less than the value of 2½ bushels of corn to apply 100 pounds of muriate of potash per acre. The extra potash will increase the total yields and give a greater percentage of marketable corn, which means more feed from each acre. Write us for further information and corn literature.

STORIES IN STAMPS
BY I. S. KLEIN

THE REVOLT OF THE BEGGARS

THE citizens of Brazil's southernmost province of Rio Grande do Sul 100 years ago, were incensed at the system of absentee government. So, in 1834, led by Bento Gonçalves da Silva, they rebelled.

The rebels made up a motley
army of ununiformed plainmen, who rode to battle armed mostly with lance and sabre. So sorry a lot were they that the government troops who came to meet them called them, contemptuously, the army of beggars. As rebel "beggars," therefore, they have been known to this day.

For 10 years of fighting went on between the "beggars"
and the government soldiers.
Finally, in 1844, Da Silva was induced to lay down his arms and disband his depleted army. But this uprising laid the foundation for liberty in Brazil.

In 1935, on the 100th anniversary of this "Beggars Revolt," Brazil issued a series of four stamps picturing incident of the revolt and the opposing leaders.

CHRISTIAN SCIENCE CHURCHES

"Ancient and Modern Necromancy, Allas Mesmerism and Hypnotism, Denounced" was the subject of the Lesson-Sermon in all Churches of Christ, Scientist, on Sunday, May 30.

The Golden Text was, "I am with thee to save thee and to deliver thee, saith the Lord. And I will deliver thee out of the hand of the wicked, and I will redeem thee out of the hand of the terrible" (Jeremiah 15: 20, 21).

Among the citations which comprised the Lesson-Sermon was the following from the Bible: "No weapon that is formed against thee shall prosper; and every tongue that shall rise against thee in judgment thou shalt condemn. This is the heritage of the servants of the Lord, and their righteousness is of me, saith the Lord" (Isaiah 54: 17).

The Lesson-Sermon also included the following passages from the Christian Science textbook,
"Science and Health with Key to the Scriptures," by Mary Baker Eddy:
"Whoever uses his developed mental powers like an escaped felon to commit fresh atrocities as opportunity occurs is never safe. God will arrest him. Divine justice will manacle him" (p. 105).

GRADUATES HEAR
INSPIRING TALK;
BACCALAUREATEMethodist Pastor Gives Observations On The Game of Life

"Is Life a Game?" was the subject of the Baccalaureate address delivered to the Dixon high school class of 1937 at services held in the high school auditorium, Sunday evening before a capacity audience of parents and friends of the graduates.

Taking as his text a Scriptural passage, "Ye are compassed about by witnesses" from Hebrews 11, Rev. Buxton stated, there should be a recognition and appreciation of those who have already played the game of life. Their efforts, he believes will inspire one to play one's part better. The speaker emphasized that the game is worth playing and declared that we get out of life only what we put into it—that if we seek only thrills, we lose our sense of proportion and thrills soon pall into unbearable boredom.

"We need to prepare for the game in order to play," continued Rev.
Buxton, "and to play the game well we strip off every encumbrance to free and easy action. In life these clinging folds are sin and every other handicap and complex of mind and body. Athletes do not wear overcoats when they run the 100 yard dash or break a new pole vault record!"

Moral Liabilities
Rev. Buxton told the graduates that the present age is full of too many moral liabilities in too many individual cases. "Not lack of skill or training, but lack of character loses the game for most of life's failures. Moral bankruptcy can lose the game of life for a nation as well, as witness the attestations and records of history.

"The game is worth playing whether you won or not," continued Rev. Buxton, "for four years a young man out for football at Northwestern, played as a scrub on the team and was battered around by the varsity. He never made the team and the World War took him to France. He never returned. But now a memorial stands on Northwestern's campus for all to see. Inscribed on the foundation stone is the tribute, 'He played four years on the scrubs, and never quit."

Rev. Buxton told the graduates he had observed the Dixon high school trophy case though full, did not cause lack of desire on the part of future teams to win more trophies, new achievements, and beat old records again and again.

In closing he said "Keep your eye on Jesus, the pioneer of perfection and faith. We are playing the game for a purpose, the creation of the kingdom of God, and the other way to achieve this or any other purpose is to first establish one."

It works, she says, and once it

WILBUR SHAW IS WINNER OF AUTO CLASSIC

Checks totaling $30,-000 Await the Speedster

Indianapolis, June 1.—(AP)—Checks totaling more than $30,000 were held today for Wilbur Shaw, a dapper young Hoosier who gambled on his tires and gasoline supply and won a 500-mile Indianapolis motor speedway race after seven attempts.

Shaw, along with other drivers in yesterday's race—the fastest, the closest and the hottest in history—will attend the annual dinner for pilots tonight to get the money he and they won.

For Shaw there will be a $20,000 check for winning the race. He will get others, amounting to $5,500, for lap prize money, and a flock of others will be awarded by automobile accessory and gasoline companies.

Shaw, a native of Indianapolis, roared to victory in a car he designed, built and owns shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, with Ralph Hepburn, the Los Angeles veteran, only two seconds behind him. Hepburn came just that close to putting an end to the old speedway idea that a car never wins two races. He was driving the same job that Louis Meyer drove to victory last year.

The speed of 113,580 miles an hour was the fastest ever made in a 500-mile race. In fact, the first four finishers all broke the previous speed record of 109,069 miles an hour set last year by Meyer.

Last 90 miles Thrilling. The last 90 miles of the race were as thrilling as anyone of the 170,000 spectators could want to see. At 409 miles Shaw seized the lead from Bob Swanson of Los Angeles who had been driving for Hepburn. Ralph got back in his own car and took out after the fast-flying Indianapolis boy.

At that time he was more than 2 1/2 laps back but he knew he was through with pit stops. With Shaw it was a question of whether the gas supply and tires would last. Gradually Hepburn pulled up. When Shaw went into his next-to-last lap he was 27 seconds ahead of Hepburn. At the start of the last lap he was only 14 seconds out in front and at the finish he was slightly more than two seconds to the good.

Ted Horn of Los Angeles who won second last year was the third place winner. Meyer wound up in fourth place after a masterful bit of driving in the later stages of the race. Cliff Bergere of Hollywood, Calif., was fifth; Fred Frame of Los Angeles, driving relief for Bill Cummings of Indianapolis, was sixth; Billy Devore of Kansas City was seventh; Tony Gulletta of Kansas City was eighth; George Connor of San Bernardino, Calif., was ninth and Louis Tomel of Portland, Ore., was tenth.

There wasn't a single serious accident until after the first six cars had finished. Then Floyd Davis of Springfield, Ill., cracked into the wall on the northwest turn while battling to get in the money. He and his mechanic, Dee Toran of San Diego, Calif., were thrown on to the track and were unconscious when picked up. They were reported to be in good shape today, however.

The blistering heat and the high speed put 14 of the 33 starters out of the race before the finish.

KING CARL'S LONG STRING IS FINISHED

Dodgers Blast Him From Mound; Go On To Win 10-3

BY SID FEDER

Associated Press Sports Writer
It just had to be the Dodgers. It was in the cards that the Daffiness boys from Brooklyn—the jinx outfit that has hoodooed the Giants more times than Bill Terry cares to remember—should be the club to catch up with Carl Hubbell's winning streak, and smash his record-making run.

But even though the Hub's 24-game string, longest in all baseball history over a two-season stretch, is ended, there's no one who can say old squarepants isn't just as good a loser as he is a winner, and isn't still a pretty fair country flogger.

Just after the Dodgers belted him out in 3 1/3 innings yesterday and went on to an 18-hit, 10-3 win in the opening game of the holiday double bill, Hubbell showed definitely that he can "take it".

"It had to come," he said in the clubhouse after the long walk from the mound in front of the 60,000 crowd that jammed the Polo Grounds.

Great While It Lasted

"It was great while it lasted, but no one can go on winning forever. I had a lot of luck. It just ran out on me." There was even a chuckle in his voice. "Now that the heat's off, may be I can do a little real pitching."

The rest of the Memorial Day program made little difference to the diamond world. The baseball faithful didn't care so much that the Giants came back to take the second game 5-4, or that the Cleveland Indians drubbed the Tigers twice, or that the Cubs, winning a double bill from the Cardinals, clouted Dizzy Dean for 15 hits in the night-cap.

The big thing was that Hubbell's streak, begun last July 17, was put in cold storage—and by the always bewildering Brooklyn, at that.

For the rest of the program, the double whipping the Indians handed the Tigers, 7-1 and 6-5, (the latter going 11 innings) was outstanding. The Indians took second place in the American league, dropping the Tigers to third.

Pittsburgh's Pirates maintained a 1 1/2 game National league lead by splitting with Cincinnati, taking the nightcap, 7-5, after dropping the opener, 8-3. The American league pace-setters, the Yanks, came from behind to win the first game from the Red Sox, 4-3, and then fell, 8-2, in the second.

Bill Lee and Clay Bryant each pitched six-hitters as the Cubs conquered the Cards, 4-2 and 6-3. The Phillies knocked off the Boston Bees, 6-3 and 9-6. Washington walloped the sinking Athletics, 6-3 and 6-1, and the Chicago White Sox did the same to the St. Louis Browns, 5-2 and 9-8.

NATIONAL OPEN ENTRANTS START INITIAL TESTS

Qualifying Rounds Draw 1302 Stars From All U. S.

New York, June 1.—(AP)—Three former champions, one of the vintage of 1916, another as recent as 1935, were in the lists today as 1,302 golfers from New England to Texas opened fire in the 36-hole sectional qualifying tests for the national open championship.

At Chicago, which drew the second-largest entry of the 30 districts with a field of 169, Chick Evans, winner of the open and amateur in 1916 and the amateur again four years later, was one of 53 amateur candidates for 15 places in the open, to be played at the Oakland Hills Country Club, Birmingham, Mich., June 10 to 12.

At West Orange, N. J., where 108 players, the third-largest entry, competed for the 12 berths allotted to the metropolitan New York area, one of the contenders was Willie MacFarlane, veteran Scottish pro who won the 1925 open at Worcester, Mass.

A member of the 78-man group battling for eight places at Pittsburgh was Sam Parks, Jr., seeking to qualify on the course where he won his 1935 title.

Over 1000 Playing. The 815 professionals and 487 amateurs playing today made up the largest part of the record entry of 1,404. Seventy players already have participated in two Pacific coast trials, which qualified eight men among them 1934 champion Olin Dutra, and 32 others, the 31 low scorers of last year and Al Watrous, Oakland Hills pro, are automatically eligible for the championship proper.

One of the qualifying points to draw attention was Huntington, W. Va., where Sam Snead, outstanding newcomer to top-flight pro circles, and a Ryder Cup candidate was one of 27 golfers battling for free trips to Oakland Hills.

Other prominent players in today's arduous eliminations were Lawson Little, former U. S. and British amateur champion, Craig Wood, Jimmy Hines, Ed Dudley and Byron Nelson, Ryder Cup candidates; Reynolds Smith and Charley Yates, members of last year's Walker Cup team; Frank Stranfer and Eddie Held, former U. S. public links champions, and Jess Sweetser, one-time U. S. and British amateur title-holder.

Wood, Hines and Stranfer played in the "met" district, Dudley and Nelson at Philadelphia, Smith at Fort Worth, Tex., Yates at Atlanta, Ga., held at St. Louis, and Little at Chicago.

The biggest field was scheduled for play over two courses near Detroit, Oakland Hills and the Plum Hollow G. C. at Redford, Mich., where 111 amateurs and 88 pros vied for 16 places.

EPSOM DOWNS RACE DRAWING USUAL CROWDS

Epsom Downs, Eng., June 1.—(AP)—Crowds gathered again onto Epsom Downs' rolling acres today for the opening of the spring meeting which will be climaxed by tomorrow's renewal of the $56,000 "derby," the world's most trying and treacherous horse race.

Picking tomorrow's victorious three-year-old was one of the toughest jobs in the 157-year history of the classic. There wasn't a standout colt among the 21 probable starters, there had not been a really confident prediction of victory by any owner, trainer or jockey and there appeared to be at least six "probable" winners.

Lord Astor's Cash Book remained the new 13 to 2 favorite but chances were good that he would be supplanted by Le Ksar or Solfo at the final Victoria club call-over, tonight.

Goya II, the American-owned and bred Perfox, and the Grand Duke completed the big six.

Boyd Rochford, trainer of Perfox, told the Associated Press the son of Gallant Fox was ready, "but we could use a little rain."

Although the Epsom course has a thick blanket of grass, it is hard as a board underneath.

The bageyman of the derby as usual was the Aga Khan, whose Mahmud and Bahram won the last two derbies. This time the fabulously rich Indian religious leader has Le Grand Duc, strangely enough the only horse in the race notoriously fond of hard going.

Cochran's Condition Reported Unchanged

New York, June 1.—(AP)—Mickey Cochran's condition was unchanged today. The Detroit catcher and manager who is at a hospital here, with a fractured skull received in a game with the Yankees last week, was considered much improved by doctors yesterday, and spent a quiet night.

Soil surveys have been completed in 26 Oklahoma counties and soil maps have been published for 13 counties.

FELLER SHELVED INDEFINITELY BY CLEVELAND

Bad Arm Given Reason For Another Long Vacation Period

Cleveland, June 1.—(AP)—Baseball's storybook kid, Bob Feller, bothered by a sore arm and public attention, was on the shelf today for another indefinite period.

The 18-year-old Cleveland pitcher, who skyrocketed to fame by the strikeout route, packed his bag and left the city on a leave of absence expected to last from two weeks to a month.

Feller has pitched to only one batter since he injured his "million dollar arm" in his 1937 American debut here April 24—five and one-half weeks ago.

C. C. Slapnicka, Indians' vice-president, issued a formal announcement saying "after several attempts at pitching during batting practice and after several short periods of rest, Bob still feels the soreness in his forearm and it has been decided that a complete rest will be beneficial as well as necessary."

Didn't Mention Bad Arm Slapnicka said Feller would visit friends for several days, and then would return to his Iowa home to wait until his right arm feels ready for further duty.

"I haven't heard anything about it," said Mrs. Will Feller, the strikeout king's mother. "The last letter I got from Bob was Thursday but he didn't mention leaving Cleveland. He said he was feeling great."

Slapnicka said Feller had become nervous and irritable under the strain of public attention, and that a need of complete freedom from baseball contacts and even from baseball conversation was indicated.

The average soil which is more than slightly acid should be given two tons of finely ground limestone per acre.

Wilbur Shaw of Indianapolis, Ind., winner of the 1937 500 mile automobile race at the Indianapolis motor speedway, May 31, is shown at right in auto as he waved to crowd and spoke into microphone while his mechanic, Peter Johnson left, reached for a cool drink. Shaw averaged 113,580 miles an hour in the race.

AMERICA'S CUP HOPES ASSUME BRIGHTER HUE

Decisive Rout of Australians Featured By Brant's Game

New York, June 1.—(AP)—It may be optimism, or patriotism or a combination of both, but the impression prevails in expert tennis circles today, following America's 5-0 rout of the Australian Davis Cuppers at Forest Hills, that your Uncle Samuel's young racket swingers have at least an even chance to recapture the famous tennis trophy at Wimbledon in July.

They may need a few more "breaks", such as they got through the epidemic of ailments that extracted the threat from Australia's attack, but the combination of red-headed Don Budge, mighty little Bryan (Bitsy) Grant, and husky Gene Mako, Budge's doubles partner, looks like this country's most formidable challenge in at least five years.

Strong Support for Budge. Budge in his third Davis Cup campaign at the age of 22 is the spearhead of the drive but from the way Grant performed in his first two "big time" tests, it appears the great red-head will have unexpectedly strong support.

Selected to play in the zone finals for the first time, Grant proved to be 125 pounds of dynamite. Renowned for years as a "giant killer", the tiny Georgian came through magnificently. Yesterday, by scores of 6-0, 6-2, 7-5, Grant whipped the great Jack Crawford just as decisively as his team-mate did two days previously.

Meantime Budge disposed of 18-year-old Jack Bromwich 6-2, 6-3, 5-7, 6-1.

THE secretary bird bears a close resemblance to other birds of prey, with the exception of its legs. These have developed into long, powerful weapons, with which it stamps out the life of snakes — its favorite prey. A snake stands small chance against the lightning-like thrusts of the legs, which are armed at the feet with sharp claws.

REMINISCENCES

By H. G. REMINGTON

Dixon Telegraph Staff Writer and Former London Times Military and Feature Writer

Twice in the year does the Turkish world give itself up to a season of holidays. Throughout the generations, irrespective of imperial or constitutional anniversaries, the celebration of the two Bairams, Sheker or Candy Bairam, and Courban or Sacrifice Bairam, has been maintained.

Sheker Bairam comes at the close of Ramadan, the month of daylight fasting, that terrible period when, from earliest dawn until the boom of the sunset cannon, Moslems are forbidden to eat the least morsel of food, sip a drop of anything liquid, or take even a puff of the essential cigarette.

The night times, on the other hand, are given up to revelry and feasting. This is all very well for the luxurious and indolent, who can take their ease, turn night time into daytime, and even scorn, in their modern skepticism, the requirements of their prophet. But it is hard on the obedient toilers.

The holy calendar of the Mohammedans is based on the lunar year, each cycle bringing the fast 11 days forward. The hardship increases, therefore, when the month of Ramadan leaves the short days of winter and moves toward the heat, the humidity and the endless hours of the summer sun. But when the succeeding new moon has been officially seen, it is time to announce the three-day festival of Sheker Bairam.

This is the annual gala period of a Turk's life. He arranges himself, his wife and children in new apparel; he gives and receives presents of delicious candy, and he makes calls on all his friends. It is true that the new Turk is beginning to imitate the foreigner's Christmas, making the occasion one for general gifts. The candy offering, simple yet complete in its joyousness, is a tradition which, with many another bit of charm from the olden days, some modern Turks do not appreciate.

An interval of about 60 days separates Sheker Bairam from Courban Bairam. One Sheker Bairam came just in time to be unmarred by the outbreak of Italian hostilities. It is of that year's Sheker Bairam that I am writing, for I happened to be in Constantinople at the time.

The high government officials realized the gravity of the war clouds and kept the bureaus of the ministry feverishly at work, but the populace were oblivious. After the first excitement and jubilation over the surprising opposition to the Italians, the Turk's mind was as ready as ever for the holiday cheer and felicitations of Courban Bairam, the "Feast of the Sacrifice."

On the first morning of this four-day festival, at sunrise, each household must kill a sheep. The hallowed sacrifice is a celebration as essential as a turkey on Thanksgiving day in America. The consumption of sheep on this occasion is startling. I was told that in some years 240,000 sheep were brought to Constantinople for the Bairam sacrifice.

The center of Bairam traffic in Constantinople is the irregular open area bounded by the picturesque, minaretted pile of Bayazid mosque and the triumphal-gated enclosure of the War department.

Flocks of sheep from the "interior," that is, Asia Minor, Turkey, in Europe, and even the formerly Turkish valleys of Bulgaria and the mountain country of Albania, are here gathered at the annual mart.

On a terrace outside the high iron fence of the War department sit crowds of Turkish women. For the most part they are shrouded in black silk, and even before the wearing of the veil was prohibited in Turkey, these women at the sheep mart would throw back their square veil lattices without any constitutional question of propriety.

The occasional mantles of colored silks, lavender, purple, light green and straw, and the primary shades of the children's dresses, served to relieve the sinister appearance of these queer onlookers. There they would sit, all day long, and smoke and chatter. The scene over which they seemed to preside was a fascinating mingling of sheep with the red-fezzed Constantinopolitan crowd.

The sheep are not your woolly-lamb kind with clinging coats, but wonderful, long-haired creatures, with really handsome faces, and horns that curl proudly into a full circle. An odd sheep, perhaps, has spiral horns shooting upward like rays, or flaring horns that stand out sidewise in wavy lines. Each shepherd has splashed the members of his flock with some distinctive hue—green, carmine, orange, purple—to call attention to his possessions and to identify them. The dye covers a spot about the size of a man's hand, on the neck or just above the tail. The effect is not displeasing. At other seasons, than Bairam I have seen flocks daubed with tar or similar substances, but no shepherd is so worldly-foolish at the Bairam sale.

Every sheep is sold at a bargain, or perhaps I should say, after a bargain. For it is to be supposed that the feast would be as satisfying if the cheley, the master of the house, should come home with a sheep for which he paid the price asked for? Or is it to be supposed that your Anatolian Turk or Albanian would go home with happy money if it had not cost him some wrangling? He would feel that he had been dealing with fools.

In rain or shine he stands on the plain, near his flocks, a lonely figure with only his head protruding from the great felt coat that sheaths him like armor. The coat sticks out from his shoulders as if on a frame, but it is held only by the stiffness of the material. It is ample protection against heat, cold or rain. The coat is covered with crude designs which recall the ornamentation employed by the American Indians.

This shepherd has trudged with his flock from Philadelphia to Constantinople. He has spent the better part of three weeks on the journey. His sojourn in Constantinople has been the event of the year, the goal of all his labors. But praised be Allah! with gold in his pocket he will soon take the new-fangled iron road back to "his country," as he calls his town, there to renew the familiar routine of his days.

Here is another shepherd, very different from the Anatolian. This one is Albanian, lithe of frame, unencumbered with stiff felt canopy or heavy wrapping, but clothed in close-fitting trousers edged with black braid, a short white jacket, and a skull cap of white felt. His native land is two days' journey away by rail, but he has taken up sheep-raising on the Thracian plain. Member of a European race, which far from degenerating has not yet blossomed into its power, he steps about with a capable air that speaks out his superiority over the Anatolian Turk.

Another shepherd has spent his days among the ruins of Nicaea, whence has come much of the world's creed. And here is the guardian and salesman of the neighboring flock, a Moslem Bulgarian whose father did not leave his lands about a half-century ago when the Russians swept through to Constantinople, releasing many Moslems from the misrule of their caliph. He has come by rail from the plains around Philippopolis, and he will not be loath to return thither, good Mohammedan though he is. Life at the time of which we write was safer across the border.

The transportation of the sheep is interesting. Most of them are carried through the streets by the hamals or human express service of Constantinople. The regular hamal has a kind of leather saddle hanging at his back, and this makes an excellent seat for the sheep. Other sheep are given a straight pick-a-back journey to their last brief home.

In imperial days one group of sheep was apart from all others in distinction at Bairam time, these being the animals intended for the sultan's sacrifice. After a most careful Turkish bath their horns were overlaid with gold leaf. They were led in triumph from the Old Seraglio in Stamboul to the palace of Dolma Bagtche on the Bosphorus. Then, at the moment of the return of the sultan from his special prayers at some mosque on Bairam morning, the sheep were slain.

FLOWER NAMES

OFTEN VARY IN DIFFERENT LOCALITIES!

THE YELLOW DOG-TOOTH VIOLET IS KNOWN IN SOME PLACES AS YELLOW ADDER'S TONGUE, TROUT LILY AND FAWN LILY! ALSO, ONE NAME FREQUENTLY IS APPLIED TO DIFFERENT FLOWERS.

IN PATRICK COUNTY, VIRGINIA, THE SOIL OF THE COUNTRYSIDE IS LITTERED WITH THOUSANDS OF TINY, NATURAL STONE CROSSES, KNOWN AS "FAIRY CROSSES."

THERE ARE ONLY FIFTY PER CENT AS MANY APPLE TREES IN THE UNITED STATES NOW AS THERE WERE 25 YEARS AGO.

THE "fairy crosses," found so generously sprinkled through the soil of portions of Virginia, are known, technically, as "complex silicate of hydrated iron-aluminum crystallized in the orthorhombic system." They go by the general name of "sphaerulite."
